Singular Proceedings in a Peace Meeting.

Philadelphia, July 13—The session of the Universal Peace Society at Carpenter's hall this afternoon came to a summary and peculiar termination. Dr. Chase Pinkham of California began to address the meeting. His manner was excited and his remarks wild. It soon became manifest that he was insane, at least his words from all which were heard. President Love insisted that the speaker be allowed to proceed, and Pinkham went on becoming more and more excited and violent until he sprang upon a chair brandishing a sword. Several members went after the police and several of the force came in, but President Love insisted he should not be interfered with and that the principle of non-resistance be adhered to. A large crowd gathered outside and at length Pinkham became quiet and said he had been possessed of the immortal spirit of Washington but had succeeded in shaking it off. The spirit he explained had attempted through him to pronounce a new declaration. There is great dissatisfaction at President Love's course, and members say if he occupies the chair to-morrow there will be no meeting.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Washington, July 12—The bill reported from the Senate judiciary committee to-day to alter and amend the Pacific railroad acts of 1862 and 1864 embodies the following provisions: 1st. That the net earnings of which 5 per centum per annum is required by the existing law to be paid to the United States is defined to be the gross receipts less only the actual operating expenses. 2d. The Secretary of the Treasury is to retain the whole amount earned by the Pacific railroad for government transportation, one half to be immediately applied to the liquidation of the interest advanced on the subsidy bonds and the other half to make a part of the sinking fund. 3d. On the 1st of February each year the Union Central Pacific railroads shall pay into the Treasury to the credit of said sinking fund $150,000 each or so much thereof as shall be necessary to make the 5 per cent. payment and the government transportation account together with this sum amount in the aggregate to 25 per cent. of the whole net earnings of each company for the year ending with the previous December. The net earnings are to be computed as above defined and no provision is made for reinvesting or compounding the interest on the sums thus paid but it is simply required that they shall be invested in U. S. bonds. The same requirements are made in regard to the Kansas Pacific, Sioux City and Pacific and Central branches of the Union Pacific except that the amounts of their annual payments are estimated at $150,000, $100,000 and $[illegible],000 respectively. Fourth section: Whenever it is satisfactorily shown to the Secretary of the Treasury by any of said companies that 25 per cent. of its net earnings for any current year were insufficient to pay the interest for said year upon obligations par amount to those of the United States and such interest has been paid out of such net earnings, he shall remit so much of the 25 per cent. as was thus applied. The 5th provides against the payment of any dividend by any of the companies at any time when it is in default in any of the amounts required to be paid to the United States. The officers violating this section shall be liable to $100,000 fine and one year imprisonment. It is not provided that the bonds shall be paid out of the sinking fund as they mature and that said sinking fund shall be held also as security for all prior mortgages and creditors paramount to the United States. By the 9th section the United States claim is made to cover all property granted to or acquired by the companies. The remaining sections make it the duty of the attorney general to prosecute for the benefit of the United States all violations of this act and provide that the failure for six months to comply with its requirements shall operate as a forfeiture of their charter; declare that this act shall be held as an amendment of the acts of 1862 and 1864 and finally reserve the right to alter or amend them further or to repeal them altogether.

The President's Letter to Bristow.

Washington, July 13—The following letter was sent yesterday to ex-Secretary Bristow by the President:

Executive Mansion, Washington City, July 12, 1876.

To Hon. B. H. Bristow—Dear Sir: Through the press I learn that the committee of Congress investigating the whisky frauds have summoned you as a witness and that you with great propriety as I think, have declined to testify claiming that what occurs in the Cabinet or between the members of the Cabinet and the Executive officially is privileged and that a committee of Congress have no right to demand an answer. I appreciate the position you have assumed on the question, but beg to relieve you from all obligation of secrecy on this subject and desire not only that you may answer all questions asked relating to it, but wish that all the members of my cabinet and the ex-members of the cabinet since I have been President may also be called upon to testify in regard to the matter. With great respect, your obedient servant,

U. S. GRANT.

District Attorney Dyer and the President.

Washington, July 12—The sub committee of the special committee to inquire into St. Louis whisky trials, examined grand juryman Fox of St. Louis. He was closely questioned as to his conversation with the President when he came here in March last just after the Babcock trials. Witness said the conversation was of very brief duration and was confined mostly to the attitude taken by Henderson and Dyer toward the President during the Avery trial. He said he told the President he thought Dyer was as bad as Henderson in his course and remarks toward the President. He was asked what Dyer did and he said Dyer came before the grand jury and was very forward ab[illegible] telling what he knew and volunteered so much information that he (witness) was compelled to check him and insist that he be sworn if he was going to make such statements. Witness was asked what the President said to him in reply and said that the President did not say much if anything; that he was not in the mood of a listener for witness [illegible] most of the talking.

The British Press on Derby's Note.

Lord Derby's Views Touching Extradition.

(... fragments of the preceding column continue:) [illegible] called by the name of an offense specified [illegible] treaty, but for a lasting an offense of that [illegible] according to law. If the surrendering country is to prevent the surrender of persons on a charge of a certain nature, and this upon a trial on the [illegible] it gives a political character to the act for which surrender was made, the surrendering country must have the right to judge whether the offense is political. Secretary Fish's assurances that the Administration have [illegible] obtaining a prisoner on the political asylum by obtaining a prisoner on the charge and trying him for a political offense is not sufficient as the Attorney General cannot interfere when an offense is committed against the law of any State. The act of Congress of Aug. 1, 1848 shows the construction put on the treaty by the United States. Lord Derby briefly reviews the negotiations in 1842 and [illegible] and says the violation in the case of [illegible] from was not an act of Her Majesty's government, but it regretted it. The government believes that the United States were actuated by a sincere desire to maintain that which in their judgment was demanded by the treaty of 1842 and they wish the same construction put on England's motives. The note deplores the misunderstanding between the two governments and says the British government is ready to join the United States in negotiating a new treaty.

Thompson from the committee on elections reported a resolution in the South Carolina contested election case declaring that neither Butts the contestant nor Mackey the sitting member were lawfully elected to Congress; ordered printed.

Payne from the conference committee on the silver bill made a report and proceeded to explain it. He said in regard to the proposition to make silver dollars a legal tender for all debts public and private the committee had been unable to agree, but two of the House conferees and all the Senate conferees recommended the omission from the bill of that portion relating to the silver dollar. He showed that owing to the extraordinary decline in the price of silver within the last few months, and most remarkably within the last ten days, the silver dollar of the weight and fineness prescribed by law is to-day worth no more than 90 cents relatively to gold and less than 90 cents relatively to greenbacks. So extreme and sudden a change in the value of the silver dollar made the proposition of declaring it a legal tender a most startling proposition and one of a revolutionary character. Certainly Congress and the country should wait before the standard value of silver was fixed by law. Perhaps it could be determined at next session but it could not be now. The conference committee therefore could not agree in recommending any policy in reference to the silver dollar.

Landers, one of the House conferees, opposed that part of the report which omitted all reference to the silver dollar and argued in favor of the restoration of the double standard which had been the standard of the country from the foundation of the government up to 1873.

Fort regarded the pending question as one of demonetization of silver and pointed out that the public debt and almost all the private debts of the country had been contracted when the standard of silver [illegible]. The bondholders [illegible] in this contract and [illegible] commodity which they agree to a [illegible] that silver had depreciated [illegible] however [illegible] it should depreciate the more [illegible] some great bonanza what would the [illegible] friends of the bondholders say that gold had depreciated and [illegible] was dishonest money and that the [illegible] bondholders should not be compelled to take it, they would be paid in silver or some other more valuable commodity.

Kasson said those who sustained the report demanded that the wages of labor should not be paid in depreciated money. No man dealt honestly with the labor of the country who did not propose to pay him for his labor in good money. On that platform he had stood for years against all claims of inflation and all attempts to reduce the money of the United States to the value of that of San Domingo where it takes a market basket full to buy a dozen of eggs for breakfast. It was not to demonetize, but to remonetize and to satisfy demands of the community for silver change.

Garfield said the House had been brought face to face with what seemed on one hand public honor and on the other the deepest public disgrace by the alternative propositions presented to the House. He argued that since 1834 there had been but one standard of money in this country—the dollar—although it had been fully embodied in two metals—gold and silver. Congress had sought however to make the dollar in both metals equivalent, keeping the amounts of metal in the one so adjusted to the amount of metal in the other that the dollar in gold would be equivalent to the dollar in silver. Every hour he continued that we have had a double standard it has been doubtful on the ground of equivalency and when by the shifting value of the two metals in relation to each other they have changed, Congress has come in and equalized them either by increasing the amount of metal in the one or by decreasing it in the other.

It has so happened that by fluctuations of recent times silver has so depreciated in value that if it were now one of our legal forms of payments in all amounts the creditors of the government, the men we are paying money to every day all around the United States could be swindled to the extent of 21 cents on the dollar when paying them in silver rather than in gold. [illegible] the extent of ten cents on the dollar [illegible] paying them in silver rather than in paper. We are [illegible] bound by the act of 1869 to pay our bonds [illegible] its equivalent. Do you say you can pay [illegible] in depreciated silver and still keep the law of equivalency which was the spirit of the law [illegible] 1869?

[illegible] opposed the adoption of the report and [illegible] that by implication in the [illegible] gold and silver were lawful money of the [illegible] and therefore demonetization of silver was unconstitutional.

The chairman of the committee on banking and currency argued in favor of the adoption of the report. He suggested that the bill introduced by [illegible] of Missouri to allow the owners of silver [illegible] to deposit it in the mint and receive subsidiary silver coins in payment was a better bill than any of those passed by the House, but it [illegible] before the House and the conference report was not amenable. It was [illegible] silver coin would be facilitated if it were [illegible] there was nothing of relief the [illegible] [illegible] with the gentleman from Indiana [illegible] [illegible].

More about the California Pacific R. R. Bonds Case.

San Francisco, July 13—Yesterday Judge Wheeler of the 19th district court rendered a profound decision in an agreed case. The case was submitted by the German bondholders of the California Pacific railroad and the directors of the Central Pacific to the effect that the endorsement of the California Pacific bonds by the Central Pacific was valid. To-day on motion of A. A. Cohen, attorney for the stockholders of the Central Pacific an order was made in chambers returnable to-morrow that the parties to the case should show cause why the judgment should not be set aside. Cohen claimed that he can adduce facts in controversion of the statements submitted by the parties.

Smallpox Increasing.

Thirty new cases of smallpox have been reported since Monday morning and four deaths.

Fire.

Fresno, July 13—A fire broke out here at 12:30 last night, destroying three dwelling houses with most of all the contents. Loss about $30,000; $10,000 insurance. The wind was fierce at one time and the destruction of half the town seemed imminent, when, fortunately it abated and the fire was mastered.

Inspecting Whisky Frauds.

The U. S. grand jury visited the Bay View distillery, accompanied by the U. S. marshal Marseilis, John W. Dwinelle special attorney for the prosecution of whisky frauds and A. M. Cratic special revenue agent as witness. They made a thorough examination of the premises. District Attorney Coghlan apparently intends pushing the prosecution against whisky thieves.

Hair-clipping Ordinance.

Since the hair-clipping ordinance has been put into operation in the county and branch jails, Chinese criminals have become scarce. Less than one-third the usual number have been brought before the police court during the last month.

Ineffectual Attempt at Suicide.

Los Angeles, July 13—An oil miner named John Miller was brought here from Lyons last night for surgical assistance. He tried to kill himself with a rifle, but the bullet lodged in his head, entering the right side. He is now in a precarious condition, but the shot may not prove fatal. No cause has been assigned for the act.

Los Angeles and Utah Railway to be Built.

Col. J. Crawford has received dispatches from Salt Lake to the effect that Jay Gould's party are to make a personal survey of the extension of the Southern road towards Los Angeles. There is now little doubt here in well informed circles that the Utah Southern have agreed to construct 400 miles of road to meet the Los Angeles and Independence railroad at Point of Rocks. This would leave the latter company less than 150 miles to build to secure connection with the Union Pacific at Ogden.

Homicide Caused by Hoodlums.

San Francisco, July 13—Ernest Brendel, a German employed as a lamp lighter at Mission, while on duty last Saturday evening was annoyed by a gang of hoodlums, which resulted in the horse he rode taking fright and unseating him. One of Brendel's feet got entangled in the stirrup and he was dragged on the ground for about half a block. He died on the following day from the injuries received.

Man Poisoned by his Mistress.

Abel Stearns, a colored man, was found at his house, No. 219 Minna street, about 2 A. He is in a very precarious condition. He had been employed in the Palace hotel.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION FOR SHEEP RAISERS.

Portland, July 11, 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

I wish to ask through your valuable paper the wool growers of Oregon how are we to get rid of and keep our flocks clean from diseases, especially those which are contagious? For example, we have more or less scabby flocks of sheep among our sheep raisers and if one of those diseased sheep gets among a healthy band he is liable to give it to the whole flock. Now among our wool growers we have about as many different sorts of gypsy people as in any other occupation, and many who have diseased sheep just let them range loosely over the country and of their neighbor does not like it just let him lump it. In Eastern Oregon particularly do we have that kind of [illegible] raisers. I know of several flocks which were allowed the past winter to run over the open country without any restraint which had the scab and shedding their wool as they went. Others could be seen ten miles away from their owner's corrall, he not seeing them for weeks. Now, I ask you wool growers how are we to keep our flocks healthy and be protected from infectious diseases?

WOOL GROWER.

The future is always fairy land to the young. Life is like a beautiful and winding lane on either side bright flowers and beautiful butterflies and tempting fruits which we scarcely pause to admire and to taste so eager are we to hasten to an opening which we imagine will be more beautiful still. But by degrees as we advance the trees grow bleak, the flowers and butterflies fail the fruits disappear and we find we have arrived to reach a desert waste.—G. A. Sala.

OREGON AT THE CENTENNIAL

ANOTHER TESTIMONIAL TO OUR STATE—THE EASTERN PEOPLE GET THEIR EYES OPENED.

[Special Correspondence of the Chicago Evening Journal.]

Philadelphia, June 22, 1876.

While perambulating around through Agricultural Hall this morning I came upon

THE OREGON STATE EXHIBIT,

And from the parties in charge I gathered some facts relative to Oregon and its productions which will doubtless prove interesting to all readers of the Journal. It is doubtful whether more than an infinitesimal portion of the people who live in the States and Territories east of the Rocky Mountains are fully aware of what Oregon is capable of producing, or of the superior natural advantages possessed by that large but youthful State. It seems to me that a State which can send to the Exposition such an exhibit of agricultural and horticultural products as Oregon has sent deserves to be better known and more generally appreciated. I do not wish to be understood however to mean that Oregon, as a State, has any exhibit there. Her legislature declined to appropriate one dollar, in advance, for Centennial purposes and the exhibit in Agricultural Hall is the result of individual enterprise rather than State pride. The display is under the care of Mr. A. J. Dufur, assisted by Mr. C. E. Dubois, both of Portland. These gentlemen not only have charge of the exhibit, but they prepared the articles and brought them hither at their own expense, hoping that the Legislature of their State at its next session will reimburse them. If the Legislature fails to do so, it ought to be dumped into the Columbia river. The exhibit occupies 15x24 feet of space in column E No. 21, not far from the Illinois department. The articles are as neatly arranged as they could possibly be, and everything shows off to good advantage, making it one of the most attractive State exhibits in the building. Every article speaks well for the State, but perhaps it is

IN GRAINS AND SEEDS

That the State particularly excels. I never before saw such wheat, rye and oats as are here on exhibition. There are stalks of oats 8½ feet in length, and yielding 87 bushels to the acre and 45 pounds to the bushel. Samples of wheat that yields 50 bushels to the acre, and 70 pounds to the bushel. One sample is of wheat sown on sod, without any plowing or harrowing, and in ninety days from the time the seed was sown the crop was harvested and bagged, showing a yield of 30 bushels per acre. It is good, fair, plump wheat too, and no one would suppose from its appearance that it was never cultivated, but like Topsy, "just growed right up" itself. There are samples of club wheat which makes no fuss at all about yielding 60 bushels to every acre sown and properly cultivated. There are samples of winter wheat that grows at the rate of 140 stalks from one little seed. The farmers of Oregon plant wheat ten months in the year, and get good crops every time. The experiment of planting it every month has also been tried successfully. What they call the poorest wheat in their exhibit would pass for No. 1 in almost any market east of the Rocky Mountains. And as for the rye, it is simply unequaled anywhere on the continent. Of seeds there are twenty-three varieties, from the finest blue grass to the coarse [illegible] which grow in the valleys and on the mountain sides.

DIFFERENT SAMPLES OF WOODS

To the number of thirty are in the exhibit. There are pieces of maple looking so much like mahogany that not one person in twenty can detect the difference. Then there are the real mountain mahogany, the silver pine, and other woods admirably adapted to building purposes and to the manufacture of furniture. There is also a section of red cedar that stood 325 feet high and measured 22 feet in diameter at the base. It stood near Portland, and has for years been an object of admiration and wonder to all who beheld its vast proportions. There are shingles from the identical tree under which the intrepid explorers, Lewis and Clark, the discoverers of the Columbia river, had their encampment, in 1804-5. That tree produced 100,000 shingles from 58 cords of wood. There are some very fine

SAMPLES OF WOOL,

In which production Oregon claims to excel. If the specimens exhibited here are a fair index of what is generally produced there, Oregon sheep have reason to be proud of their fleece, and the State may well be proud of her sheep.

Another product worthy of special mention is

THE FLAX

Specimens of which are objects of more than ordinary attention. The stalk is four feet and the fibre the finest and purest I have ever seen.

SALMON,

From the Columbia river—a delicious fish, with which that river abounds and for which it has become noted. No finer fish can be found on the continent than this.

Another article worthy of note, and one which I never heard of before, is a sample of

CONCENTRATED CIDER

This is a dark, gummy looking substance, about half an inch thick, done up in rolls, and resembling glue, or the composition used in the manufacture of rollers for printing presses. It is made by some Oregonian process from apples or apple juice, and put up in this shape so as to be convenient for use at any time and place where cider is liable to be wanted. A small piece of this concentrated preparation dropped into water speedily dissolves, and the result is a quantity of pure, sweet, wholesome cider. In the way of

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES,

Oregon also shows up creditably. There are few vegetables on exhibition at present, but what few there are would do credit to any State. Of fruits there are nicely put up packages of dried peaches, pears, apples, plums, figs, prunes and raisins, such as cannot be excelled by any portion of the Union. And all of these, as well as some other varieties of fruit, are raised in great abundance, the climate of that far off State being so mild and equable that a failure of the fruit crop is something unknown to the people.

The exhibit also contains numerous interesting specimens from

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM

Which add to the variety and help to interest the hundreds of visitors who daily call to examine these wonderful products. A novel and

BEAUTIFUL LITTLE PICTURE

Called the "Mining Scene" is exhibited here and no person can see it without admiring the perfection of the work. It is done in mosses of various colors, no brushes nor paints being used by the artist. It was executed by Mary Lee, a little girl of only nine years, who lives in Clatskanie, Columbia county, Oregon. The genius displayed by the girl in this production furnishes another striking proof that full many a gem of purest ray serene is born to blush and not only blush, but wither in the realms of obscurity.

AFTER EXAMINING

This exhibit from Oregon and learning the facts which I have briefly set forth the visitor cannot fail of being impressed with the idea that Oregon is a neglected State, that her resources and her natural advantages entitle her to more attention than she receives, and that instead of having only 115,000 inhabitants she should to-day have a population of at least a million. Her soil is productive, land is cheap, the climate is delightful, the scenery is grand, and the State offers an inviting field for enterprising men who have an inclination to "go West" and establish for themselves lucrative business and permanent homes on the Pacific coast. Fortunately this Centennial Exhibit will be the means of making Oregon better known, and her wonderful advantages better understood.

The farmers of Clackamas county are jubilant over the late rains. Most of their small grain crops were spring sowed and the showers were much needed.

THE ASHBURTON TREATY AND THE WINSLOW CASE

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The following communication from the Central Law Journal, (St. Louis) of June 30, sheds some much-needed light upon a subject concerning which the average American patriot and newspaper, for the past few months, has been exhibiting an unusual want of information.

D.

FUSTIAN AND FUSS

To the Editor of the Central Law Journal: Do not public journals, on both sides of the Atlantic seem to manifest a sort of strange proclivity to embrace the side of their respective governments, without for a moment considering the actual or even the politic, right of the matter?

The question of extradition is best understood by lawyers. And to illustrate the English position in this interesting question, let me give you a case from which any man of common understanding can eliminate a principle. One D. K. had removed from Kansas to Iowa, and had been living in the latter State for about a year. He left behind him a woman and her "kith and kin" who wished to sue him in several actions, civil and criminal, but it was more convenient to sue him in Kansas. A case was hatched up for forgery. Affidavit was made in due form, and D. K. was extradited from Iowa, and brought back with all due solemnity, in bonds, to Kansas. Here there was no charge of forgery against him, but he was put on trial for obtaining five promissory notes by a false token or writing. There was not a shadow of pretence for this charge, and on a trial on the merits, he was acquitted. In the meantime and while under arrest, he was sued in two or three other cases. The plea was made and filed that this whole proceeding was conceived, begun, and prosecuted for the purpose of, in fraud of and ousting Iowa, a sovereign independent State, of her jurisdiction and transferring it in personam to Kansas. But on the authority of Judge Church's decision, the court overruled all the pleas, and held that if a man was in a State—no matter how he was brought there, whether voluntarily or not—you could, in defiance of his rights of citizenship, pester him all over with writs for any and every offense—black-mail him and make him buy his immunity in States where "justice is administered without sale, denial or delay." The English people are right, and whenever we conclude a treaty with them, it will have to be, and ought to be, that the criminal is to be tried for the offense for which he is extradited. The strangest part of this matter is that it had not occurred to man a thousand years ago. Under our construction, and under the [illegible] as [illegible] by Judge Church's [illegible] all you have to do when you wish to get jurisdiction of a man's person is to bring him within the ocular range of the [illegible].

England's view of this matter will finally be accepted, and I again [illegible] that Congress should pass [illegible] a law [illegible] the [illegible].

The Farmer says: "Wheat is worth 71 cents at Salem, oats 55 cents, hay $10 to $15 per ton. New potatoes, $1 per bushel, butter, 20 cents per pound, eggs, 18 cents per dozen. Vegetables are abundant and there have been in good supply. The new hay coming in is chiefly orchard grass and wild oats, no good timothy has yet found its way to market. The price will come down when we have a full supply. Wool rates at 15 cents still, with no very active demand except for choice lots."

The Enterprise says: "In connection with J. W. Cochran's movement for a steamboat company on the Willamette river, articles of incorporation were filed last month in the clerk's office by the Farmers Transportation Company, with J. W. Cochran, F. O. McCown and F. D[illegible] as incorporators, for the purpose of improving and rebuilding the old railway between Oregon City and Canemah. We understand the scheme awaits the fulfillment of Capt. Cochran's other combinations up the river."

Several months ago we published an account of a man at Astoria whose hair after growing to a great length and being very thick, nearly all came out in one night. A C[illegible] county man, whose hair had all fallen off his eyebrows and whiskers even dropping out until his head and face were as bare of capillary substance as a billiard ball, is now rejoiced at the promise of a new crop of hair on his head, and though his [illegible] half his upper lip are still bare and [illegible], he boasts of a pair of Burnside whiskers of considerable growth.

WAKEFULNESS.—If you find yourself inclined to wake up at a regular hour in the night, and remain awake, you can break up the habit in three days by getting up as soon as you wake and not going to sleep again until your usual hour for retiring, or retire two hours later and rise two hours earlier for three days in succession not sleeping a moment in the daytime.—Dr. Hall.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 14 1876

THE SPURIOUS REFORMER

To say that Mr. Tilden is not, so far as can be judged from his public life of late years a representative of the better class of Democratic politicians, would be to deny the evidence of one's observation and reason. And it is small praise surely to give him the credit of a position among the best class of a party that has been without distinctive principles so long that its own leaders dispute with each other as to what were the principles of the party before they were abandoned. Before Tilden was nominated for President his prosecution of the canal ring of New York received universal commendation from all parties; and it is not easy to see how his nomination destroys the merit of his conduct in that matter. But when it is sought to make him appear the great representative of the reform sentiment of the country, thinking people will ask what he has done to entitle him to that distinction. He has prosecuted, with a good intention, let us assume, but certainly with very indifferent success, a set of men who have been swindling the people of New York through fraudulent canal contracts; and that is the end of his reform record. No; we omit one other item to his credit. when the people of New York City, mainly through the efforts of the great Republican newspaper, the New York Times, were let into the secret of how they were being plundered and robbed by Tweed and his Tammany pals some six or seven years ago, and the general indignation became an uncontrollable torrent into which all classes of people were swept, Tilden's experience and acuteness as a lawyer, and his personal knowledge of the ways of the Tammany ring,—he having been long a member thereof—pointed him out as a person who could, if he would, be of great service in breaking up the den, and he was selected as a member of the famous Committee of Seventy. He espoused the cause that all who pretended to respectability espoused, and did yeoman service in that memorable campaign against crime. Let him have the credit of it. Certainly for the part he took he is more to be commended than if he had undertaken to stem the current of public anger and help Tweed and his gang make away with their ill-gotten gains. But does all this make a man a great reformer? It may be accepted as evidence that his instincts and sympathies are against public thieves and their crimes, but that is as much as can be claimed for it. Has Tilden distinguished himself as Governor of the Empire State, by inaugurating a system of reform in the public service of that commonwealth? Have the evil practices that made the Tammany ring and the canal ring possible been attacked by him? Has he used the extensive patronage in his hands in a way to tone up the public morals of his State and render office-holding more respectable, by setting his face as flint against the entire system of political huckstering which has characterized New York politics? There is no record of that sort that we are aware of. He has prosecuted two gangs of criminals and left myriads unprosecuted; and that is his record as a reformer. Possibly, if he were elected President, he would not wink at crime, as there is reason to fear has been done by the present administration; but he has neither said nor done anything to justify the title he assumes of the representative reformer of the times, nor to warrant the confidence of the people that, as President, he would institute a system of civil service which would reduce the temptations to, and the opportunities for corruption to their lowest limit; and it must not be supposed that anything short of such a system—not merely personal effort to secure honest service, but a system that will work out that end naturally—will permanently cure the malady of the nation. Administrative reform, which does not strike at the root of the evil, is and always will be a delusion and a failure. Tilden has had no experience in any such reform as is demanded, notwithstanding his continual boasting. Indeed, his boasting of experience in Administrative reform, if it can be allowed as sincere, indicates that he has no comprehension of the subject—no conception of any reform beyond the prosecution in a desultory and disjointed way, of persons guilty of crimes to which they have been invited by the system of politics under which the country has been running to the bad. There must be a better showing or Mr. Tilden must lay aside his self-assumed title.

THE REMOVAL OF POSTMASTER-GENERAL JEWELL.

It has transpired why Postmaster-General Jewell was removed. His sturdy opposition to ring rule and his general reputation for integrity ought to have been sufficient to keep him in the Cabinet. But it is not unlikely these are among the causes of his compulsory retirement. The whole force of fraudulent mail contractors and straw bidders are his enemies. They are not the enemies of the President. On the contrary, most, if not all, of them are his friends. Tyner, the new Postmaster-General, it may be assumed with safety, is, or will be, on good terms with them. We say this of him, because his record as a Congressman is such as to warrant the assumption that he is not a man to have any overnice views of the obligations of public life. He may, however, be an honest person, despite appearances. No doubt he is honest enough for a member of the present Administration.

The reason which the public are expected to accept as an explanation of the change is, that it was made to help the Republicans to carry Indiana. The nomination of Hendricks for Vice President, by the Democrats, it is said, makes it necessary that something be done to save Indiana from going Democratic this fall. That is about as unsatisfactory a reason as could be assigned. The people are not in the humor to recognize the propriety of running the National Government as a party machine, even for the purpose of electing a President. The chances are more than even that if the people could be brought to believe this to be the true reason for removing Jewell, it would cost the Republicans heavily at the polls. And thus, even if Tyner were a man who possessed the confidence of that class of Republicans who, it is thought, need some especial attention, to keep them from supporting Tilden. If the President and his confidential advisers really desire the election of Hayes and Wheeler—which is not all certain—they make a great mistake in removing from the cabinet one of the most popular members of the Administration and then publicly giving it to be understood that the object in doing so was to make the organization of the cabinet an electioneering scheme.

A NOVEL LAW SUIT AND AN INTERESTING REVELATION

A novel case, and one involving some curious revelations concerning the political life of a prominent Democratic politician, was recently decided in the New York Superior Court. A man by the name of Ogden sued Fernando Wood for $15,000, alleging in his complaint that in 1863, 1864, and a part of 1865, Nicholas H. Fowler was corporation attorney of the city of New York; that he obtained such office on a promise to pay Fernando Wood $5,000 a year for the first two years, besides half the profits of the office; and that he did actually pay Wood several sums, amounting in all to $15,000, for the office. He further alleged that during all that time plaintiff was a judgment creditor of Fowler, who was insolvent. Upon this state of facts he claimed that the money paid by Fowler to Wood was paid without any lawful consideration, and in fraud of the rights of his creditors, whereupon plaintiff demands judgment against Wood for the sum received by the latter from Fowler. Wood denied the bargain with Fowler and the alleged payments under it. On the trial Fowler was the principal witness on behalf of the plaintiff and testified to the facts as set forth in the complaint. After the evidence for plaintiff was taken, counsel for Wood moved to dismiss the complaint on the ground that it did not appear that the money was still in Wood's hands, without which the suit could not be maintained. The court, Judge Sedgwick, allowed this motion, holding that although it was shown that Wood some years ago received the money from Fowler, there was no presumption of law that it was still in his hands, and that such a suit could be maintained against a third person as a means of reaching the identical property transferred in fraud of the creditor, and not for the purpose of making the third person—Wood—liable as a debtor. It seems not to have been questioned by the court that Wood received the money as alleged. The soundness of the decision appears to us exceedingly questionable; but the fact that such a state of facts should exist and should be brought out in a court of justice is more remarkable than any decision of the case could be. The Democrats have now another case added to the already long list of those which they conveniently forget to refer to when they are entertaining the world with Jeremiads about the corruption of politicians.

We shall see how much pains the Democratic journals will take to circulate the facts which came out the other day in the case of Ogden vs. Fernando Wood in a New York court. The great Democratic chieftain received just about the same amount from Fowler for the office of corporation attorney of New York that Belknap received from Marsh for the post-tradership. We venture to predict the Democratic papers will not make half so much fuss about this case as they did about Belknap's though the proof of the fact is much clearer.

Carl Schurz speaks out for Hayes. His influence is worth as much in this campaign as that of any other man in America, because he is recognized as one of the clearest thinkers upon political questions, and as a man who follows his convictions whether they lead in the way his party is going, or in opposite direction.

DR. R. PRICE BEGS TO INFORM THE PUBLIC that he has commenced the practice of his profession at

67 FIRST STREET,

(over Schmeer Bros' Confectionery), Portland, Oregon,

For the treatment of all Diseases of the Blood and Urinary Organs, Female Complaints, Hysteria, etc., all Diseases of the Brain, Epilepsy, Paralysis, Dimness of Sight etc., Contagious and Skin Diseases, Loss of Power, Nervous and Physical Debility, Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness, and all diseases arising from the indiscretion of early youth, Gonorrhea, Gleet, Syphilis, Loss of Hair, Sore Throat, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism and Gout.

DR. R. PRICE

Having for a number of years made the above maladies the subject of his special study, and moreover by long and careful practice modified the treatment used and recommended by such eminent men as Doctors Ricord, Lallamond, Vardeau, Videl, Wilson and others as applied by these in cold and humid climates, so as to exactly suit the altered state of the constitution of persons who have been acclimatized in tropical and semi-tropical countries, feels perfect confidence in undertaking the permanent and effectual cure of any of the above diseases of however long standing or inveterate they may be with a certainty of not only eradicating the disorder but concurrently restoring the entire constitution to perfect health and vigor. The grand peculiarity of

DR. R. PRICE'S

Treatment consist in the unscrupulous rejection of all those deleterious mineral drugs which, while they momentarily remove the symptoms, poison the blood, and permanently fix the diseases in the constitution which form the sole panacea of that unscrupulous horde of empirical charlatans who fleece their unsuspecting but too confiding dupes and for their solid gold requite them with shattered constitutions and unendurable existence and the prospect of an untimely and early grave.

BRIEF NOTES.

Portland is again without amusement.

J. Banfield and "T" will please call for letters at this office.

The steamers belonging to Cos. 2 and 3 were employed yesterday in pumping out flooded cellars.

Yesterday the city surveyor was engaged in measuring the East Portland race track to determine its exact length.

Rev. Wallace Hurlburt wishes to tender his grateful thanks to the ladies of Lee Chapel for a generous donation of $70.

Tom Merry, the fleet-footed racer, will leave for the Sound this morning. He will take a hand in the races which are to come off at Seattle in a few weeks.

Next Sabbath, at half-past two in the afternoon, the Hall-street M. E. Sunday school will give their last monthly concert but one for the current ecclesiastic year.

Miss Libbie Arnold, daughter of Rev. E. Arnold, formerly of the Oregon M. E. conference, having spent a few weeks in Oregon, will return to San Francisco by the outgoing steamer.

The East Portland M. E. Sunday School visited the insane asylum on Sunday afternoon last, and repeated a portion of the exercises of the centennial concert held on the previous Sabbath.

It is rumored that rich gold mines have been discovered in Grand Ronde valley, on the Grand Ronde river. The inhabitants of that region are said to be greatly excited over the new prospect.

Mr. J. H. Parker, of East Portland, having purchased a ranch in the Grand Ronde valley, Union county, will shortly remove to that section with a view of engaging permanently in the cattle business.

About fifty persons will go to Albany from this city next Monday evening on the express train. A special car has been chartered for the accommodation of the party, and a brass band will accompany the excursionists.

The members of Nonpareil Lodge No. 86, I. O. G. T., had a very pleasant reunion on Wednesday evening, at their hall, corner of First and Madison streets. The occasion was in honor of the ninth anniversary of the lodge.

An old folks concert given at Lee Chapel, on Friday evening last, was quite a success. After the concert came a bountiful repast, spread upon three extended tables, evidencing great liberality and good taste on the part of the lady caterers to appetites for food.

NOTES FROM SALEM.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

Under date of July 13th, our regular correspondent sends the following:

Hon. W. R. Dunbar and party are rusticating at Newport.

The weather is cloudy and unpleasant and news items correspondingly dull.

The Capital Guards will commence target practice shortly. Some silver cups are up for prizes.

The tent meetings in Marion Square are very largely attended, many being unable to gain admission.

The finishing touches are being made on the various State department quarters in the new capitol building.

J. M. Patterson, D. D. G. M., installed the newly elected officers of Chemeketa Lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F., last evening.

Jim McCully and Bob Miller, of the College Base Ball Club, have left for their respective homes in Jackson county.

Several of Salem's leading citizens contemplate visiting the Lucky Queen mine, in Southern Oregon, in a few days.

The newly organized "Unlimited Gobble Society," of which we Salemites hear so much, is rapidly increasing in membership.

Society circles were regaled with another wedding this morning. The happy couple were G. W. Epler, Esq., and Miss Helen Lance.

Mountain parties are more or less disgusted with the present weather. It is more suggestive of comforts at home than of camping out.

We understand that Dr. L. L. Rowland is acting as superintendent of the Blind Institute during the interval between Rev. Babcock's resignation and the appointment of his successor.

NEW BOOKS.

The following new books have just been added to the Portland Library:

Stonewall Jackson: A Military Biography; by John Esten Cooke, formerly of General Stewart's staff; with an appendix, containing personal reminiscences and a full account of the ceremonies attending the unveiling of Foley's statue, including the oration by Moses D. Hoge, D. D.; by Rev. Wm. Jones, D. D., author of "Personal Reminiscences of General Lee; with map, portrait and a view of Foley's statue.

Self-raised, or From the Depths: A Sequel to Ishmael, or In the Depths; by Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth.

Hidden Perils: A Novel; by Mary Cecil Hay.

Leisure Hour Series: Miss Mollie: A Novel; by Beatrice May Butt.

Diana Carew, or For a Woman's Sake. A Novel; by Mrs. Forrester.

The Prime Minister: A Novel; by Anthony Trollope.

The Romance of a Poor Young Man; Translated from the French of Octave Feuillet.

Elsie Neuner; A Romance of Destiny; by Oliver Wendell Holmes; 2 vols. in one.

Stray Studies from England and Italy; by John Richard Green, author of "A Short History of English People."

Homeric Synchronism; An Enquiry into the Time and Place of Homer, by the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, M. P.

The Abode of Snow; Observations on a Tour from Chinese Thibet to the Indian Caucasus through the Upper Valleys of the Himalaya.

MILITARY NOTES.

First Lieutenant Frank K. Upham, 1st cavalry, is detailed as an additional member of the general court-martial instituted by special orders No. 89, paragraph 4, current series.

Private William C. Springer, general service, on duty at these headquarters, will proceed to Fort Stevens, Oregon, on the 13th inst. and report temporarily for duty to First Lieutenant William H. Boyle, 21st infantry, aid de camp.

Pursuant to authority from the War Department, dated June 26, 1876, a furlough for two months, for the purpose of visiting Philadelphia, Penn., is granted Private George Thomas company E, 1st cavalry, Fort Walla Walla W. T.

The quartermaster's department will furnish transportation from this city to San Francisco to Michael McCloskey, discharged the 2d inst. from company D, 21st infantry, he being without means and unable to obtain employment in this city.

MORE MONEY NEEDED.

To the Citizens of Portland: Owing to unforeseen expenses, the centennial executive committee find their liabilities exceed their receipts. The committee hold themselves personally responsible for all bills contracted and audited by the proper committee, and they will be paid at the office of Millard & Van Schuyver, on Monday next. There may be some persons who were not asked to subscribe and others who would increase the amount of their subscription. The Bank of British Columbia, Ladd & Tilton and the First National Bank will receive such subscriptions until Saturday next at 1 o'clock. On Monday next a full statement of all expenditures will be placed before the public, with the amounts donated by each. COMMITTEE.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE BENEFIT. Mr. Chas. M. Atkins has reason to feel flattered at the attendance last evening at New Market theater on the occasion of the complimentary benefit tendered him. Dress circle, parquette and gallery were crowded to repletion by the fashion and elite of the city. A capital bill was rendered, which afforded the large audience abundant amusement and sent everybody home well satisfied with the evening's performance. Last evening the company took passage on the steamer for San Francisco. At the Ajax will not leave Astoria before Saturday morning, the company will give a performance at that place this evening.

The water falleth, and people look hap, ... particularly those who go to Barnes.

One of the coolest spots in town is the "Fountain," where Peter Wilhelm holds forth. He keeps the best liquors and cigars, and Weinhardt's best beer. His billiard tables are excellent, and the "Virginius" pool table continues a favorite.

At a baptizing, last week, the coat collar of one of the candidates tore off, and he was baptized three times before the officiating clergyman could catch him. He was a book agent, however, and the latter drew a beautiful illustration from it in his next sermon as a direct dispensation of Providence. Buy from the new suits at Fishel & Roberts'.

The Centennial is over, and our country cousins, as well as the city folks, have had an abundance of amusements. All who have paid a visit to Jos. Kohn's clothing house express themselves thoroughly satisfied with the manner in which he treated them.

HAIR RESTORED.

If any who are skeptical of the ability of Mrs. S. Lord to produce a crop of new hair in all stages of baldness will call or write to her at her rooms in National Bank building, Portland, she will refer them to several prominent Portland gentlemen who three months since placed themselves under her treatment and are now in possession of a crop of new fine hair which is rapidly increasing in strength and vigor. Itching of the scalp and falling hair checked readily. Preparations sent to all parts of Oregon and Washington.

W. L. Adams, M. D., A. M., LL. D., corner of First and Salmon streets, is curing the most inveterate chronic diseases of all kinds at a low price, by medicated, electric lightning cream baths, and by combining the German and French with the American improved practice, mixed with a little common sense. His treatment is, in the main, entirely original, and works almost miracles, as his numerous patients will attest. Is extraordinarily success... in treating female complaints.

A LETTER.

DR. WIGHTMAN—Dear Sir: Since using your PROCESS I have been entirely free from the Hæmorrhoids or Piles, and with the exception of two or three times I have never felt any symptoms of them. Then it was only my own fault. God knows I have had reason to feel thankful for the great good your VALUABLE REMEDY has been to me. Yours truly

J. M. BACON, P. M., Oregon City.

The WIGHTMAN PROCESS will be sent to patients living at a distance, C. O. D., by Express. Rooms on Third street, between Washington and Alder. Letter enclosing stamp will be promptly answered. Postoffice box 217, Portland, Oregon. DR. C. F. WIGHTMAN.

LAST APPEARANCE OF DANIEL DREW.

Daniel Drew, the stock dealer, famous in the days of his ... among the famous of Wall street, has once more, and for the last time, risen up into notice. Daniel's career as a gambler in railroad shares began during the war. He made heavy ventures at a time when circumstances were all as favorable for speculation as it was possible for them to be, and if he won at the business, and out of his winnings accumulated a great fortune, it was because the chances were all in his favor and he could not conveniently help it. What Daniel's wealth amounted to at its highest is not known accurately. He never knew himself. He kept no books, relying solely on his memory and the honesty of his bankers, although his transactions, singly, amounted to hundreds of thousands, nay millions of dollars. The truth is that Daniel did not know very much about account, or for that matter, any other kind of books. By profession, before taking to Wall street, he was a cattle drover. His opportunities at learning—school learning—had not been large, or if they were he had not taken care to improve them, and the consequence was that he was rather below par in respect to letters. But the ability to write and speak the English language correctly is by no means an essential art to stock dealing any more than it is to rouge et noir, seven-up or any other game of chance, and Daniel felt that he got along well enough without it and perhaps he did.

Daniel professed to be a truly good and pious man. Perhaps he was. He is said to have contributed quite liberally to church and other benevolent enterprises. We know that he endowed with his promises to pay, a theological seminary, and if those promises went to protest, and the seminary has had to go begging since to make good the defalcation, it may have been his misfortune rather than his fault. But the question will suggest itself. Would it, in the long run, have been better for the seminary if those promises had been paid? Churches, like the old Presbyterian church, here in Pittsburg, used to be built by lotteries indeed, but we are inclined to think that, like the old First Presbyterian church under its early administration, they did not prosper any the better for it. So it might have proved with the Drew seminary. Endowments secured, by "selling short," "cornering the market," and all that sort of thing, where to make money is to make it without paying value for it, and consequently the next thing to stealing it from the loser, do not seem to be of the kind likely to be followed with a blessing. But people draw fine distinctions in morals now-a-days. There are those, many, who will stake money on the chances of a rise or fall within so many days, in Lake Shore, or Toledo and Wabash, and think it all right, who would recoil at the idea of betting—say that Goldsmith Maid could or could not trot her mile in 2 15. And yet where is the difference?

But the fate which always threatens and generally overtakes gamblers caught up with Drew at last. Northwestern collapsed on his hands, and he lost a million by it. Wabash and Canada Southern went down, and another million sunk with them. Lake Shore and Canton drained him of $600,000 or $700,000 more. Then Quicksilver fell on him, and that settled it. He went into bankruptcy, disappeared from Wall street, and so was lost to sight. Last week he rose into view again, for a day, to give testimony in the bankrupt proceedings in his own case. That ended, he lapses back again into obscurity, and Daniel has seen his last of the world, and the world has seen its last of Daniel. No matter for the world; it can wag along quite as prosperously without him as with him; and if two or three others like him were to follow after him, we could still say—no matter.—Pittsburgh Leader.

THE STEINWAY PIANO

LEADS ALL OTHERS AT THE CENTENNIAL

The following Telegraphic Dispatch was received and published in the "Oregonian" of the 10th July:

Philadelphia, July 8, 1876.

A grand fight is now going on among the Centennial Judges of Pianos. It is charged that several of them are in the interests of Inferior Manufacturers, for which reason they refuse to concur in any report declaring their judgment in favor of the best Instruments exhibited. Experts unreservedly declare the Gold in New York, 111¼.

Legal Tenders in Portland—buying 89½, selling 90.

Coin Exchange on San Francisco ¼ per cent.

Coin Exchange on New York ¾ per cent. premium.

Telegraphic transfers on New York 1 per cent premium.

Currency Exchange on New York ½ per cent. premium.

Currency Exchange on San Francisco ½ per cent. premium.

Gold Bars 800 par.

The quotation of legal tenders at 90 cents is about the highest figure given for them within a year past. The supply of this sort of currency here is not large and though gold coin as a basis is the best circulating medium in the world such are our relations with those who use legal tender currency that at least a moderate amount of it is necessarily in circulation.

There is a good deal of activity, for the season, noticed in monetary circles, and though most of it is, as far as single transactions are concerned, unimportant in its character, the movement of capital in the aggregate is very considerable. The supply of funds is rather augmenting than otherwise, as trade interests are making but little demand just at this time on the surplus capital of the country, and as an improved call for moving the grain crop is anticipated within the next sixty days, loans and discounts are made at about the usual rates, but there is hardly the same degree of anxiety to place large sums as was manifested a few weeks ago. Borrowers have rather a diminishing control of the market.

The movement of the crop in California has commenced, but it has made less impression on the money market there than was anticipated, up to this time, and an abundance of capital is obtained at quite as low rates as prevailed before the harvest set in. "It is commonly supposed," says the Bulletin of the 7th, "that the stock of gold coin in the State is about $20,000,000, though at the time of the bank panic last August, there was probably not more than $10,000,000 in the city of San Francisco. The amount coined for the past year exceeds the amount shipped by $8,250,000. There was also from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 in gold coin released from the sub-treasurer's office last September and October, by telegraphic transfer on New York. It is probably the case that the coin supply is now larger than it has been at any time during the past five years. The amount, however, as compared with the volume of business transacted, is exceedingly small; yet there is nothing like the appearance of stringency in any quarter. We have here an illustration of how large a business may be carried on with little money. Our excellent system of short credits makes a million dollars discharge millions of obligations every month. Next to coin, the great requisite of business is confidence; and it often seems that the latter is more important than the former. Fortunately we have them both in sufficient abundance for all practical purposes."

Domestic Produce.

The market shows somewhat heavier receipts than yesterday, and makes a fair showing for the week. The prospect of a full average crop of wheat in Oregon and an unusually large yield in California renders the question of the prices to rule for this cereal a matter of paramount importance. At this time it is impossible to determine with that certainty which would be a safe basis to act upon, what will be the course of the market in the next three months. The most recent advices from San Francisco indicate a depr[illegible]d condition of the freight market, and it is not unlikely that the very large number of vessels headed toward this coast will keep freights down to the lowest living rates, and the wheat producing interests be thereby so [illegible]. The flour market is dull, and light exports with full receipts leave an aggregate large supply in the hands of millers' agents here. Oats are coming forward in limited quantity, but under the reduced demand prices show a slightly downward tendency for all qualities unless for extra choice for milling purposes. Our quotations are jobbers' paying rates to-day both for the local trade and for export. Mill feed is about as a month ago with a better supply and a chance for some decline in the near future. Provisions and dairy products are coming forward in adequate volume to supply the local and export trade, and prices are steady. Dried apples are very scarce. Eggs are higher. Wool is unimproved, and though the receipts are quite voluminous the total actual transactions are comparatively limited, most of the ship[illegible] being made by agents who ship and sell for the growers on commission. Sales at this place are generally on the basis of our quotations, the [illegible] figures being only for the best grades and most neatly packed. The outgoing steamer for San Francisco carries about 75,000 lbs.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—For fair average lots, $1 45 per cental sacked.

A TOUCHING TALE.—He was a seedy looking individual, and as he stood, upon the corner gazing wistfully at the disappearing form of a news boy who had just picked up a good size stump and was making off with the prize, there was a vague aspect of despair in his attitude which was very touching. Perhaps it was this which attracted the attention of a mild-looking party who was passing by, and perhaps it was something else but however this may be, the mild looking party stopped and gazing at the solitary figure, addressed it thus:

"Old man, wouldn't you like to have a drink this morning?"

"You've read me as accurately as though my thoughts were printed on an open page," replied the Solitary, taking his quid from his mouth and passing a dilapidated coat sleeve over his lips.

"I thought so," murmured the mild-looking party, while a tear trickled down his cheek, "but conquer the desire. Fight it as you would a legion of devils, for drink has ruined many a man who had a more expansive forehead than you've got."

And then the mild-looking party continued on his way, and the Solitary gazed dreamily into space and communed with himself.

FIXED UP.—A wild-looking old man with a contused nose and an ugly looking scratch down his left cheek, went into a drug store on Main street lately and said to the clerk: "I am goin ter git sot up ter day, cuss me if I don't. Gimme somethin' that'll make me ugly as Satan—whiskey, kerosene, anything, so's I can git up courage enough to perfect myself from my wife. Great Scott! I'd like ter chaw giant powder, vulcan powder, rend-rock powder, dynamite, or suthin'. I'd like ter be as strong as a steam ingine, and I'd make things different in my house! She's wus'n a pirit." The polite clerk said: "Will you take your oath that you'll never tell if I give you something strong enough to rend the ramparts of the world?" The old man bowed his head and solemnly made the promise. The clerk then gave him a glass of plain soda, and the man went out to chaw up things.

TWO HEARTS THAT BEAT AS ONE.—Love scene on the banks of the Chattahoochee. They were sitting together like two ebony images, he staring vacuity out of countenance and she resting her raven crimps on his heaving shoulder. "Miles away from hyar," she fondly murmured, "where de buffonlo rips and ta'rs and frows dirt at the settin' sun—dar's whar we'll go, Gawge." Gawge's lips moved not, neither did he utter any word, but the whites of his eyes repeated, "Dar's whar we'll go."

A week ago last Tuesday night the steam saw mill of Warwick & Hadley, situated about eight miles above Dayton, W. T., was destroyed by fire. With the mill and machinery, which were a total loss, some 8,000 feet of clear lumber was burned. The cause of the fire had not been determined, but it was believed to be accidental.

A St. Joseph man has applied for a divorce from his wife on the grounds that she chews tobacco, smokes a corn cob pipe, dips snuff, eats onions, and snores at night.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE. 600,000 Acres in EASTERN OREGON! For Farming and Grazing Purposes.

THESE LANDS ARE SITUATED IN WASCO, Grant and Baker counties, and are offered for sale in such sized tracts, not less than 160 acres, as purchasers may desire. Here is afforded a most favorable opportunity to immigrants and settlers seeking homes and low priced land to acquire both on the most reasonable terms. These lands are excellent for farming and grazing. On most of the tracts no grubbing, or other preparation of the land for plowing is requisite. A growth of nutritious grass covers the uplands, affording the best of pasturage, while in the valleys and bottom lands the grass can be mowed and made into hay. Living springs and streams water the lands in various directions. The uplands, or rolling lands, can be put into crops with the most satisfactory returns. Fruit, particularly peaches, plums, grapes, apples, pears and cherries, as well as the smaller fruits, can be grown in great abundance. The climate of Eastern Oregon is very healthful. Flourishing towns are located at convenient points for traffic; the mails are regularly conveyed throughout that section, and a prosperous population is already established, occupied in farming, stock growing, mining, and various other pursuits. Terms, $1 25 per acre and upwards, according to quality and quantity. Interest ten per cent on deferred payments.

For further information, apply in person, or by letter to GEO. L. CURRY, Agent, Cree's Building, Stark st., bet. Front & First.

LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS. Choice Farms for Sale. 4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem, all under cultivation and suitable for grain or vegetables.

940 Acres four miles southeast of Salem, on the railroad, with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county, with fine springs, consisting in part of the old Reeto donation claim, on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety-four bushels per acre, grain weighed and ground chained by Mr. Alfred Stanton, of Salem.

2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land, with timber for farming purposes, bounded by the Willamette River for four miles, beautiful lake on the east, boat landings all along the river, commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed, and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels, to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I can offer any person or persons, or colony of persons, desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley, near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages, as well as most favorably located with respect to markets, greater advantages, on more favorable terms, than they can ever expect to realize again. THOMAS CROSS.

Construction of Life Boat Station Houses. SEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED AT this Department until 12 o'clock, noon, of Monday, the 31st day of July, 1876, for the construction of Life Boat Station Houses at the following named points on the Pacific Coast, to wit: One at Neah Bay, one at Shoalwater Bay, and one at Cape Disappointment, Washington Territory, one at Cape Arago, (Coos Bay), Oregon, and one at Humboldt Bay, California.

Bids will be received for one, several or all of the above mentioned houses and bidders must state the number they will build and designate the localities.

Each bid must be accompanied with a bond in the sum of one thousand dollars, with two good and sufficient sureties conditioned that the bidder shall enter into contract without delay, if his bid be accepted.

All proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for the construction of Life Boat Station Houses" and addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, D. C.

Specifications and plans and forms of proposal and bond can be obtained at the offices of the Collectors of Customs at San Francisco, Astoria, Port [illegible], Empire City and Port Townsend, also upon application to this Department.

The right to reject any or all bids or to waive defects, if it is deemed for the interests of the Government to do so, is reserved.

(Signed) CHAS. F. CONANT, Acting Secretary. Treasury Department, Washington, D. C. June 29, 1876. jy1d1law2tn

THE SEA-SIDE HOUSE, CLATSOP BEACH, IS NOW OPEN FOR THE RECEPTION OF VISITORS. J. C. OLMSTED.

BAY VIEW HOUSE, BAKER'S BAY, UNITY, W. T. MR. DEXTER INFORMS THE PUBLIC that his House is now open for the reception of guests. Its advantages in every respect over any other Summer Resort are too well known to Oregonians to repeat here. To strangers I will say that the place is in plain sight and across the Bay from Astoria, on the sheltered side of Cape Hancock, and very near and adjacent to the Fort and Lighthouse, on Baker's Bay, a beautiful sheet of water, unequaled for Sailing, Rowing, Fishing and Bathing. The dark forest with its picturesque drives, its mountain springs, profusion of wild berries, wild flowers and ferns, the horse trail to the Cape for Equestrians or walkers is one of the most delightful Panoramas to the eye ever witnessed. The cosy beaches, its caves, luxuriantly wooded Island, its views of Astoria, Chinook, Fort Stevens, Point [illegible] Tillamook, in the blue distance.

The courteous hospitality of the officers of the Garrison at the Fort and also of Mr Munson and family, of the Lighthouse, make that place well worthy of a visit.

The Salt Water Bathing in the bay within a few feet of the hotel, excels anything far or near, for warmth of the water and mildness of its waves, far preferable to the heavy surf and cold winds for women, children and invalids while the sturdy swimmer or those who love the foaming surf, in a few minutes walk will find a beach unsurpassed in beauty, hard and level for one continuous drive of thirty miles. At this end are huge rocks stretching out into the ocean, from which fishers take from the sea, Bass, Rockfish, Tom Cod, Porgies, etc., etc. Crabs, Clams, Oysters, &c., in abundance, and the Table will never lack a sufficiency of those desirable adjuncts. Boats upon the Bay, Saddle Ponies for the children, Teams to the Weather Beach, Croquet, Swings, Quoits, etc., FREE to Guests.

Prices reduced from the old tariff.

To those who would like to camp out, wood and water and use of ground free. Groceries, provisions, milk, eggs, butter, etc., for sale at a small profit. Campers can board at the Hotel if they prefer, at fair rates. A large Livery Stable, two new and fine Ten Pin Alleys, attached to the place.

Stage Office to Oysterville, Postoffice, Wells Fargo & Co's office also there. No raw winds or damp fogs, and more beautiful tracks and shady groves cannot be found. The only regret the Landlord has, is that his house is not larger, but his grounds are large enough and beautiful enough to warrant next season a Hotel worthy of the surroundings. C. H. DEXTER, Proprietor.
